This presentation of Spring Time photography is based on the web-site

Spring Photography: Ideas, Tips, and Example Photographs

<https://loadedlandscapes.com/spring-photography-projects/>

This web-site contains much more information than in this presentation

Part 1 - will show photos from this web-site

Part 2 - will be similar but showing my photos

Flowers - Plants are easy to find in your garden or parks

In Langley Park, Temple Gardens is full of Rhodedendrons, which should soon be in flower.

Streams - Though not many waterfalls near here

Channeled by Nicholas A. Tonelli / CC BY 2.0

Birds - Kingfisher with fish would be a great shot

In Spring birds are very active feeding their young.

Birds visit our garden in the morning to have a bird-bath

Wild Life - Windsor Great Park has deer
Also, in the Chilterns, Windsor Park and Richmond park.

Forest - Some woods have 'atmosphere'

In Spring the forest and woods are turning green as their leaves develop.

Section 1 - Summary

Flowers - Large aperture - to blur background

Birds- Long focal length

Landscapes - Be ready for a lucky viewpoint

Now here are some of my photos

Flowers - Bluebells are always colourful

These were on a verge in my road

Blossom - Crab Apple Tree

'Golden Hornet' Crab Apple tree in my garden.

I have used this photo for a Birthday card.

Streams - Ruislip Lido viewed through trees

Although this is not a stream it is a nice view of Ruislip Lido, framed by trees

Wild Life - Pigeon

A pigeon in Dulwich Park. Pigeons are very used to people and the food they can drop

Wild Life - Squirrel

Also in Dulwich Park, this is a crop of larger photo

Forests - Ruislip Woods - 1

*There are several woods near here, Ruislip Lido, Mad Bess and Bayhurst.
Sometimes the forest looks good in bright light.*

Forests - Ruislip Woods - 2

Sometimes the forest looks good if it is darker

Conclusions

Photograph a subject that attracts your eye

Emphasis the subject

Less is more

Remove distracting items

Crop or frame to present the subject well

I hope you enjoyed the presentation and found it interesting and thank you for watching

Now YOU need to go and take some photographs

The End
